Randy James Lohman (November 14, 2012)

Randy James Lohman was awarded the rank of Eagle Scout on Oct. 27 at Hagerstown Church of the Nazarene.

He is the son of Debbie and Rich Lohman of Keedysville. He is a junior at Boonsboro High School, where he is a member of the cross country team and the track teams. Lohman is a member of Boy Scout Troop 51 of Sharpsburg, which is chartered by St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Troop 51 meets at the church on Tuesday at 7 p.m. Lohman first began Scouting when he was in kindergarten as a Tiger Scout with Cub Scout Pack 66 in Hagerstown. He earned all of the tiger beads and many electives. Then he stopped Scouting for a few years. When he returned to Scouting, he became a Webelos Scout with Cub Scout Pack 51 in Keedysville. He earned Cub Scouting's highest award, the Arrow of Light.

On March 25, 2007, Lohman crossed over from Cub Scouts into Boy Scouts, joining Boy Scout Troop 51 in Sharpsburg. As a Boy Scout with Troop 51, he attended many Scouting events, such as hiking trips, campouts, parades and biking trips. He has also helped with many pancake breakfasts, spaghetti dinners, flower sales, popcorn sales and cleanup days. Lohman has served as Order of the Arrow representative, assistant patrol leader, patrol leader and patrol scribe. To date, he has earned 30 merit badges and the World Conservation Award.

Lohman has attended Sinoquipe summer camp for four consecutive years. He is a member of the Order of the Arrow, Guneukitschik Lodge 317. He became an Ordeal member in July 2008 and a Brotherhood member in July 2009.

Lohman completed his Eagle Project on April 9, 2011. He planned, organized and led his troop in planting more than 400 trees at Antietam National Battlefield. The project helped the battlefield to recreate the East Woods as it looked during the war.

Recently, Lohman had the opportunity to go on a trip to the Northern Tier National Boy Scout High Adventure Base in Ely, Minn. The trip consisted of a six-day canoe trek in the waters between Minnesota and Canada.

Lohman received the rank of Eagle at his final Board of Review on July 10. The Eagle Court of Honor was held at Hagerstown Church of the Nazarene in Hagerstown. The master of ceremonies for the Court of Honor was Scoutmaster John Stewart. "One Hundred Scouts" was read by Eagle Scout John Hoover, formally of Troop 1. The "Eagle in History" was read by committee member Steve Koepp. Pastor Steve Johnson provided the invocation and he also spoke at the ceremony. The "Eagle Charge" was given by Eagle Scout Chris Lyons, formerly of Troop 2. Lohman presented his mentor pin to Scoutmaster Stewart. He thanked Stewart for all of his guidance and support throughout his years of Scouting. Many awards and presentations were given to Lohman during the ceremony. County Commissioner Ruth Anne Callaham spoke during the ceremony and presented Lohman with a Washington County pin, a Washington county mini-flag, and a certificate that was signed by all of the commissioners. Eagle Scout Gerald Cump, chairman of the Americanism Committee for the Elks Lodge, also spoke and presented Lohman with a certificate and a small American Flag. Lohman also received a book that contained congratulatory letters from many dignitaries, including letters from all of the living presidents, the vice president, the secretary of state, the secretary of agriculture, Senate representatives, delegates, governors, NASA, and many others. He also received a flag that was flown over the U.S. Capitol that was at the request of U.S. Rep. Roscoe G. Bartlett. The benediction was given by the Rev. Johnson of Hagerstown Church of the Nazarene. The ceremony was followed by a luncheon at the church.

Editor's Comment: Congratulations Randy that is quite a list of accomplishments.

What do Jone Burket and Paul Keplinger have in common?

Their sons completed the JFK 50 mile ultra-marathon. Ron, the son of Nancy and Paul Keplinger ran the race for the 3rd time. He completed it in 11 hours and 33 minutes. Todd, the son of Don & Jone Bowman, and his wife Tracey ran the race as well. It was Todd's 12th year and Tracey has completed the race three times. Both completed it in 12 hours and 30 minutes. It is definitely a race of endurance. Over 1,000 people participated. Nancy and Paul both ran the race themselves, Paul with 11 finishes and Nancy with 5. Nancy was the first woman finisher in 1974 – Wow, what an accomplishment.

Editor's Comment: Nancy is also a better golfer than Paul.

Evan and Ryan Bowman, Don & Jone's grandsons, went hunting for the first time this year and both bagged a deer. Evan, 14, got an 8 point buck and Ryan, 13, a doe. Both were happy kids and made Grandma & Pappy proud.

Editor's Comment: The boys could teach some old fogies I know a thing or two about hunting.

Illiteracy an obstacle, study finds

By SALLY SQUIRES
Of The Washington Post

Participants were eligible for free prostate specific antigen (PSA) blood tests used to screen for prostate cancer and to general medical care, including a rectal exam that often detects an enlarged prostate. The problem was that men with the lowest literacy levels were unable to make medical appointments and otherwise negotiate their way through clinics and the health-care system to receive this free care, the study found.

"Among low-income black and white men, the elderly are particularly hindered by literacy barriers."

Bridges help people cross rivers

By MICHELLE DeRAVEN

Have you ever wondered what Rockford would be like without bridges across the Rock River? How would we get from east to west? Ferries might be an answer, but not a very practical one.

Bridges have helped mankind traverse waterways, oceans and the like for hundreds and even thousands of years. And, throughout that time, bridges have evolved from a simple fallen log across a narrow creek to highly complex roadways spanning miles of shallow waterways, such as the 24-mile-long Lake Pontchartrain Causeway near New Orleans, La.

To Do:

The next time your family visits Discovery Center Museum, try to find the two different arch bridges and one suspension bridge in Rock River Discovery Park. If you want to learn how engineers build bridges and buildings, you might want to participate in our upcoming Exploring Architecture Camp, from 9 a.m. to noon Wednesday, July 26, through Friday, July 27. Open to children ages 8 to 11, the camp will explore engineering and architecture with blocks, spaghetti and marshmallows, and other fun activities.

To build your own bridge or building at home, you will need:

- Pretest sticks
- Gum drops

By poking the pretest sticks in to the gum drops, you can connect them together to create your own structures. How high can you make a tower reach? How long of a span can you give to a bridge?

Man Accused of Killing Lawyer Receives a New Attorney

By Scott Stenslie
SEN Staff Writer

Charged in the murder of his former attorney, Miguel Trujillo has been appointed another attorney from the public defender's office.

Jody Reed, from the Public Defender's Department in Albuquerque, had no comment, saying that she had just been given the case with no time to review it.

Trujillo had recently rejected his previous court-appointed attorney of six months, Marc Robert.

An attorney from out of district was hired because most of the attorneys working for the Public Defender's Department out of Santa Fe knew Carlos Vigil, the man Trujillo is accused of murdering in a drive-by shooting.

Vigil was murdered Aug. 13, 1999 a few blocks from his Stubb Street office while walking to District Court for a hearing.

A lime-green, early model Ford pickup was spotted in the area linking Trujillo to the scene.

Assistant District Attorney Richard Salazar said the court was waiting for an attorney to represent Trujillo to be found to schedule the next hearing.

All First District Court judges were disqualified from the hearing, with Judge Stephen Pfeiffer excused. The Supreme Court appointed Second District Court Judge Neil Casadeña from Albuquerque to oversee the hearing.

Trujillo is accused of an open charge of murder, two counts of extorting a witness or witness, one charge of tampering with evidence, and one charge of being a felon in possession of a firearm.

Trujillo pled not guilty. He faces up to 90 years in prison.

Puerto Rican teen named mistress of the universe

San Agustin - An 18-year-old aspiring actress from Puerto Rico, who hopes to someday star in U.S. and Latin American films, was crowned last night as Miss Universe 2004.

Zuleyka Esquivel Mendez of Puerto Rico shared a nervous smile as she walked with first runner-up Karara Chikara of Japan toward a red carpet where the winner was announced. She clasped her hands to her mouth in amazement as she heard her name called. She beamed as the crown was placed on her head. Miss USA Tara Conner was the concert's host.

trict of Switzerland and third runner-up Lourdes Nevales of Paraguay.

Conner was vying to become the first U.S. winner since Fran Leebon 1991. The host city was a red carpet and limo-jockey affair and cracked a wide grin during the opening parade of national level of contestants including colorful costumes, including leathers, sequins, fur, manes, bejeweled, and in the case of Miss Japan a samurai sword.

"They were probably afraid not to pick Miss Japan or she would use that sword," quipped Carlos Kresley of TV's "Queer Eye," who provided commentary along with

After being narrowed to the final 10, the contestants moved to evening gowns, with the evening competition walking across the stage to music provided by Grigoli.

The winner travels the world for a year on behalf of charities and pageant representatives. Natalie Winkler of Canada crowned Mendez at the end of the two-hour telecast which aired on

Caskets found as workers demolish mausoleum

We had to dig around to find them.

By William H. Wines

When a mausoleum is demolished, workers usually find a few caskets.

Workers at the demolition site of the mausoleum found 10 caskets, a number not included in the original plan.

Workers reported the discovery of the caskets back to the cemetery's manager, Robert Lantz, and he turned the matter over to the police.

Workers said they saw some of the caskets in the mausoleum, but they were not sure if they were the same as the ones found.

Workers of the mausoleum were told to dig around to find them.

"We had to dig around to find them," said Lantz.

many for generations. He said he had no idea where the caskets were buried in the mausoleum.

One of Lantz's relatives, Lou Lantz, said he had seen some of the caskets in the mausoleum.

By 1971 he moved to Kansas, brought a television set and built some bridge abutments for a highway. Lantz and Lantz was the oldest son in Kansas of the mausoleum family.

According to Lantz, "I never had any idea where the caskets were buried in the mausoleum. After the death of the father, his mother asked to be buried along with her children. Because she had such a hard life, Lantz wanted where he was strong that he would take care of her best."

Then, the mausoleum was demolished by workers of the cemetery.

Rally against apathy draws small crowd

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Organizers had high hopes for a rally Saturday to battle apathy in civic life, but the event drew only a fraction of the anticipated crowd. Thelma Payne, a spokeswoman for the Coalition of Civic Leadership, said he was hoping for about 25,000 participants to hear four hours of entertainment, poetry, songs and speeches.

Instead, the rally drew about 200 people, many of whom were security guards, police constables, reporters and campaign workers heading out promptly.

"We understood that we had a tragic incident, and sometimes these types of incidents drive people from mass assemblies," Payne said, referring to the bombing that rocked the Olympic Games in Atlanta early Saturday, killing two people and injuring at least 110 others.

Another reason for the low turnout, Payne said, was just what his group is trying to battle — apathy.

Still, he was optimistic.

"This is a beginning, not an end," Payne said.

The rally began with a march from Ralph Ellison Library to the Capitol steps a few blocks north. Payne said he was expecting groups from Stillwater, Tulsa, Lawton, Enid and Muskogee.

Payne said organizers started planning the rally in April to "inspire, educate and renew our community."

Yes, honestly it's true!
She pressed 'control and 'enter'
And disappeared from view.
It devoured her completely,
The thought just makes me squirm.
She must have caught a virus
Or been eaten by a worm.
I've searched through the recycle bin
And files of every kind;
I've even used the Internet,
But nothing did I find.
In desperation, I asked Mr. Google
My searches to refine.
The reply from him was negative,
Not a thing was found 'online.'
So, if inside your 'Inbox,'
My Grandma you should see,
Please 'Copy, Scan' and 'Paste' her,
And send her back to me.

This is a tribute to all the Grandmas & Grandpas, Nannas & Pops, who have been fearless and learned to use the Computer.....They are the greatest!!!

Bran Muffins

The couple was 85 years old, and had been married for sixty years. Though they were far from rich, they managed to get by because they watched their pennies.

Though not young, they were both in very good health, largely due to the wife's insistence on healthy foods and exercise for the last decade.

One day, their good health didn't help when they went on a rare vacation and their plane crashed, sending them off to Heaven.

They reached the pearly gates, and St. Peter escorted them inside. He took them to a beautiful mansion, furnished in gold and fine silks, with a fully stocked kitchen and a waterfall in the master bath. A maid could be seen hanging their favorite clothes in the closet.

They gasped in astonishment when he said, 'Welcome to Heaven. This will be your home now.'

The old man asked Peter how much all this was going to cost.

'Why, nothing,' Peter replied, 'remember, this is your reward in Heaven.'

The old man looked out the window and right there he saw a championship golf course, finer and more beautiful than any ever built on Earth. 'What are the greens fees?' grumbled the old man.

'This is heaven ,' St. Peter replied. 'You can play for free, every day.'

Next they went to the clubhouse and saw the lavish buffet lunch, with every imaginable cuisine laid out before them, from seafood to steaks to exotic deserts, free flowing beverages.

'Don't even ask,' said St. Peter to the man, 'this is Heaven, it is all free for you to enjoy.'

The old man looked around and glanced nervously at his wife. 'Well, where are the low fat and low cholesterol foods, and the decaffeinated tea?,' he asked.

'That's the best part,' St. Peter replied, 'you can eat and drink as much as you like of whatever you like, and you will never get fat or sick. This is Heaven!'

The old man pushed, 'No gym to work out at?'

'Not unless you want to,' was the answer.

'No testing my sugar or blood pressure or...!' 'Never again. All you do here is enjoy yourself.'

The old man glared at his wife and said, 'You and your damn bran muffins. We could have been here ten years ago!'
